

Composition and reach, country by country

What each country's elite is made of

How far out of its own domain each reaches

Left: memberships, not people, so a crosser counts in two domains and the bar sums to one. Countries are ordered by the political share. Security is the smallest domain almost everywhere and the one whose reach varies most. Country is the cross-verified citizenship of the source, projected onto modern states, so the label is anachronistic for anyone born before the state existed. Coverage is encyclopaedic coverage: how many elites a country contributes says as much about which Wikipedia editions write about it as about the country.
