

From the nineteenth century to the twentieth, country by country

Each arrow runs from the 1800-1899 birth cohort to the 1900-2020 one, for the 30 countries with at least 400 crossings in each. A dot with no arrow is a country that barely moved. Rule with coercion is the only crossing that moves one way: it rises in 25 of the 30, median +0.38. Money with coercion falls in 20 of the 30, median -0.34, and the other four split about evenly. Country is the cross-verified citizenship of the source, projected onto modern states, so the label is anachronistic for anyone born before the state existed. Coverage is encyclopaedic coverage: how many elites a country contributes says as much about which Wikipedia editions write about it as about the country.
