

Does the placement of cultural production change the answer?

The six crossings under five readings of where culture belongs

What each reading leaves in

Four of the six crossings keep their sign under every reading: political with security stays positive (+0.33 to +1.07), and political-ideational, ideational-security and economic-security stay negative. The two that flip do so only when culture becomes a fifth domain, which changes the reference model itself: with ten cells instead of six, the expected counts are redistributed, so scores are comparable within a reading and not across.
